Economy In Fertilizer As Well As Other Lines

Will doubtless Be One of the Lessons of 1914 to the Farmers of the United States, Not Only Because of Enforced Economy, But of Probable Shortage and Advance in Price.

This is likely not only because of enforced economy as in all lines, but because of a probable shortage and corresponding advance in price of fertilizer ingredients which have been customarily imported from Germany. Germany. Besides, it is well known that among the most serious "leaks" in the average farm is the waste of refuse that would, if properly handled, make good fertiliber.

Having this idea in view, the department of agriculture has just issued a statement regarding the value of the wood lot or woodpile as a fertilizer producing agency, and indicating the statement is a statement of the wood lot or woodpile as a fertilizer producing agency, and indicating the statement is statement. By judiciously planned thin-ning the condition of the wood lot can be greatly improved; the material removed in the thinnings can be burned as firewood, and the wood ashes left are so rich in potash as to make a valuable fertilizer.

"The wood lot is, perhaps, the only farm crop to which the farmer has not considered it necessary to devote any care. His grains are sowed on carefully prepared soil; his vegetabler are cultivated, and his fruit trees are pruned and sprayed; his forest trees alone are left to look out for them-

No detailed technical knowledge is required for the work, all that is necessary is the exercise of common sense

"It is obvious that the trees in any wood lot are not all of equal value. Some are taller, straighter, thriftier, and of species which yield more valuable wood than others. It is also obvious that there is a constant struggle going on between the trees for light and growing space. The object of thinning is simply to give the best trees the advantage in this struggle by removing the poorer ones which in-terfere with their development.
"First of all defective trees should be removed. This includes trees at-tacked by insects or fungi (conks) trees with fire-scarred butts, with tops broken off by wind or lightning, and in general all trees which are unthrifty from any cause. Next come the trees of poor form, such as very crooked or very branchy ones, which are interfering with the growth of are interfering with the growth of botter formed neighbors. And finally are the trees of less valuable species, such as dogwood, fronwood and hornbeam. These not only take up space that might better be occupied by such species as bak, hickory, and ash, but reproduce themselves at the expense of more desirable trees. "While the wood removed in these

"While the wood removed in these thinings is frequently of no value for other purposes, it can practically always be used to advantage for fuel. In this way the work can be made to pay for itself, particularly when the future use of the wood ashes for fertilizer is borne in mind. The essential point to remember in making such thinnings is that the wood let is a tree. selves. This is the more remarkable when it is taken into consideration that any labor expended on the wood lot not only improves the final crop, but ordinarily pays for itself as well. removal and utilization of the unfit."

Hon. C. C. Featherstone Come to Anderson Today to Speak at Bethel Sunday School.

At 3 o'clock last night a call was received at the Anderson fire department saying that Anderson College was on fire. The automobile truck went up the street at a tremendous speed, closely followed by both the hook and ladder wagons, and word spread over town that the college was in flames. Hundreds of people from all parts of the city started for the college, some in automobiles, others in wagons and many on foot, and grave fears were entertained that the beautiful college buildings might be destroyed. A rare treat is in store for those Anderson people who selieve in prohibition or for that matter, for any of those desiring to hear an able address, well delivered. It was announced yesterday by Rev. S. W. Danner, pas-tor of Bethel Methodist church, that he tor of Bethel Methodist church, that he several inition donate had succeeded in securing Hon. C. While no subject has been assigned Mr. Featherstone and it is not known definitely what he will discuss, it is presumed that he will discuss, it is presumed that he will speak on prohibition, since it is well known that Mr. Featherstone is one of the strongest prohibitionists in the State. Four years ago he made the race for Governor on that ticket and was in the second race with Governor Blease.

I took a trip up the Hudson river at implementation in the state that he had five thousand passengers on board that day. Music and dancing was carried on all the while. There is a park at the foot of the mountains which people visit. There is good cool water there and people put up tents and their homes are in New York. IMPOSED FINE OF $1,000 ON DERRICK

A startling culmination came in the tween the parties interested in the liquor trials now going on in Anderson when J. E. Derrick, charged with operating a social club and selling intoxicating beverages, arose in open court, asked permission to withdraw his plea of not ruilty in the four cases in which he had already been convicted, and to substitute a plea of guilty to the charges in all the 12 cases. The court permitted this action and a fine of $1,000 was imposed.

When court convered vesterday

When court convened yesterday morning a jury was drawn to hear the fifth case against Derrick but before the hearing opened Mr. Derrick took the action stated above and this ended

It was generally presumed at the time that Derrick would pay his fines but after that time he was surrender-ed by his bondsmen to the city officials ed by his bondsmen to the city officials and was placed in jail at the city hall, seeming to indicate that he intends serving his time on the public works. This has given rise," said a well known elitzen yesterday, "to a queer possibility. What if Derrick should begin serving his sentence, should then be paroled or pardoned by the Governor, and the city should refuse to give the prisoner his freedom? Derrick would then institute habeas corpus proceedings and the matter would so proceedings and the matter would go into circuit court for trial and possib-ly on into the Supreme court."

Following the plea entered yester

case and announced the grounds on which the city was willing to submit to the plea of guilty and to grant leniency. The defendant arose and said that he would agree to the conditions and the Recorder then passed senators.

Before sentence was passed, A. H. Dagnall, Esq., who has represented Derrick in his trial, arose and advised the court that he wou'd like to say a few words. Mr. Gagnaii said that he was not in the court room as Derrick's was not in the court room as Derrick's attorney, since he had servered his connection with the case, but was present merely as a friend of the court to say that if fines were imposed in more than two cases against the defendant it would be a grave miscarriage of justice and that substantial injustice would be done the defendant.

It is understood that several addi-tional warrants were served yester-day on Lewis it. Meyers, alleged ownday on Lewis it. Meyers, alleged owner and operator of the Owl Club, and that his cases will be called for trial tomorrow morning. There are now almost as many charges against Meyers as there were against Derrick and this case will be fought as hard as was the Derrick hearing.

H. T. Elwell, also charged with selling liquor, had already announced his intention of pleading guilty to the charges against him and he appeared yesterday and announced his desire to do so. The city attorney asked that the Recorder suspend sentence for a few
